3. Once daily, a bus left Meihsien, traveled to Hoyuan (N 23-42, E 114-48) and arrived in Canton at 1400 hours the following afternoon. Bus fare from Meihsien to Canton was 16.40 new yuan.

4. commodity prices in Kungifou (N 22-26, E 112-46) were as follows:

25X1

Commodity	Unit	Price in New Yuan
Rice	picul	13.60
Pork	catty	.80
Chicken	do	.70 - .90
Kerosene	do	.55
Fish	do	.40 - .50
Salted Fish	do	.80
Salt	do	.15
Vegetables	do	.05
Peanut oil	do	.75

5. Residents of Kungifou were rationed to 15 catties of rice per month, and children received one-half of this rice ration. Overseas Chinese returning from Hong Kong were allowed to purchase 25 catties of rice each month, and Chinese returning from the United States received 30 catties each month. People were adding more vegetables, melons, roots, and other commodities to their diet, because the rice ration was inadequate for subsistence. Two bowls of cooked rice could be purchased at one time at a restaurant. Each person was permitted to purchase each month an unlimited amount of pork, four ounces of sugar, and six ounces of peanut oil. Kerosene was limited to two ounces per purchase. Sweet potatoes, biscuits, and flour were not available on the local market.

1. Comment. The rice ration was not the same in the various ch'u in Meihsien. The ration for Chinese Communist officials, cadre, and people in the city was 20 catties per month. In the country rice was rationed according to the quantity stored. For example, in Sungk'ou (N 24-27, E 116-26) the ration was 15 catties per month, and in Yuk'eng (N 23-57, E 116-10) the ration was 10 catties per month.
